

AARON ROSE

Aaron Rose is a Cyber Security Evangelist, Security Architect, and a member of the Office of the CTO at Check Point Software Technologies. As a subject matter expert in Artificial Intelligence, Internet of Things, and Application security, Aaron has dedicated his career to securing organizations and their resources beyond the traditional network firewall. Passionate about making cybersecurity education accessible to all, Aaron actively engages as a guest lecturer, mentors students, and assists in the development of cybersecurity courses.

An avid international traveler, Aaron spent three months in Tel Aviv, Israel, training with Check Point's research and development teams at the company's global headquarters.